Description

As the name suggests, Mansfield Dam Park is located adjacent to Mansfield Dam on the main body of Lake Travis and serves as one of the primary access points for boaters. Other popular attractions include picnicking, swimming, sunbathing, scuba diving and camping.

Mansfield Dam Park accommodates many user groups, including scuba divers, swimmers, boaters, picnickers and nature enthusiasts. The park provides dive stairs, a wheelchair-accessible ramp and a courtesy ADA dive lift to ease the trek from hillside to shoreline for the mobility impaired. Underwater amusement is enhanced with four underwater dive platforms at various lake levels. The park also features an underwater dive trail and compass course, which connects several dive attractions such as sunken boats, historic dam construction materials and geological points of interest.
